woman."
Atwell's affidavit stated that, after having treated Mrs. Hamilton professionally, she showed him an alleged anonymous letter, in which it was stated that Dr. Atwell had performed a criminal operation on her, thereby relieving himself of the notoriety of being proclaimed the father of an illegitimate child. A similar letter, Dr. Atwell stated, had been sent to his wife and other well-known people in Hoboken, and, although both he and Mrs. Hamilton knew the accusations were false, she forced him to give her money, under the threat of declaring that she would say they were true.

Finally, the doctor said, she made him.

declaring that she would say they were true.

Finally, the doctor said, she made him promise to marry her under an assumed name in order that she would have a marriage certificate to show her parents. The doctor claimed he had been so frightened by threats of a scandal that he went through the marriage ceremony, believing that would be the last of the matter, but that subsequently she demanded money.

Assistant District-Attorney Townsend, in his reply to Mr. Howe, compared Dr. Atwell to Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

He read an affidavit by Rev. Houghton, Mrs. Hamilton's former pastor, who buried her first child, testifying to her character. He also presented affidavits alleging that Atwell had purchased a ring at Tiffany's for Mrs. Hamilton, had shown her counterfeit papers of divorce from his wife, and had lived with her.

Justice Ingraham reserved decision until this afternoon.

"After reading the newspapers on Saturday I left home and wife and little ones. If you are removed the bill is as dead as Queen Anne. I was in Brighton on Saturday expecting to find you. If it had not been for my sudden revulsion of feeling nothing could have saved either of us yesterday. I could have fired six shots before any one laid a hand on me. Thave a strong opinion of your cleverness. I firmly believe if you will it the bill will become a law despite Salisbury. Balfour, Chamberlain and the Lords, but i tshall not if by taking two lives, yours and mine, hundreds, perhaps thousands, of loyal Ulster men will be saved. Surely that will be safficient justification. I shall look anxiously in to-morrow's papers for an answer."

Under the New Law.

The unusually large number of 4,121 immigrants were landed at Ellis Island to-day, and the crush was something awful. A sugestion as to what it will be on the island when all incoming steamers are subjected to the new immigration law was shown in the case of the Majestic, whose passengers were the first to come in under the new regulations. The Majestic landed 949 steerage passengers, and they caused no end of trouble and confusion. They were marched up to the registry clerks desks in blocks of thirty, and a matter of twenty questions were asked them.

They all had been asked the same questions on the other side, and unless their answers here agreed with their first ones they were not allowed to land.

When a buxom Irish girl was asked if she was a polygamist, she did not understand the word. When the meaning was explained to her, she said grayely, and with much emphasis:

"Faith, I'm thinkin' any man would find myself enough for him." She was allowed to land.
